SIGNATURE PROGRAM

Making Your Home Work For You

Even with all the recent advances in Smart Home Technology, there are challenges in getting item A to work with item B while being controlled with Voice option C. Although there are standards in place for most of the Smart Home Items currently available, it doesn't mean that all the items are working with the same information.

Ron walks you through the different options available showing with videos what he went through to get things working. Smart Home Technology is now expanding beyond the home to the vehicle using Android Auto and Apple Car Play. For those that travel frequently for business or pleasure, there are options available to work in that situation.

The first book in the series was released in mid 2018. The 2nd volume in currently being written. The books are available in Kindle and Paperback versions.

BIO

Ron has written for a variety of technology publications for over 20 years. In addition to that, he has spoken at conferences in the US and Europe. Ron speaks from personal experience.

Ron is constantly researching new options and reaching out to the manufacturers and inventors so he can keep you up to date without having to spend hours of your own time doing the same research.
